Headline: TECHNOLOGY - A "WINE CORK" REMOVER FOR TEETH

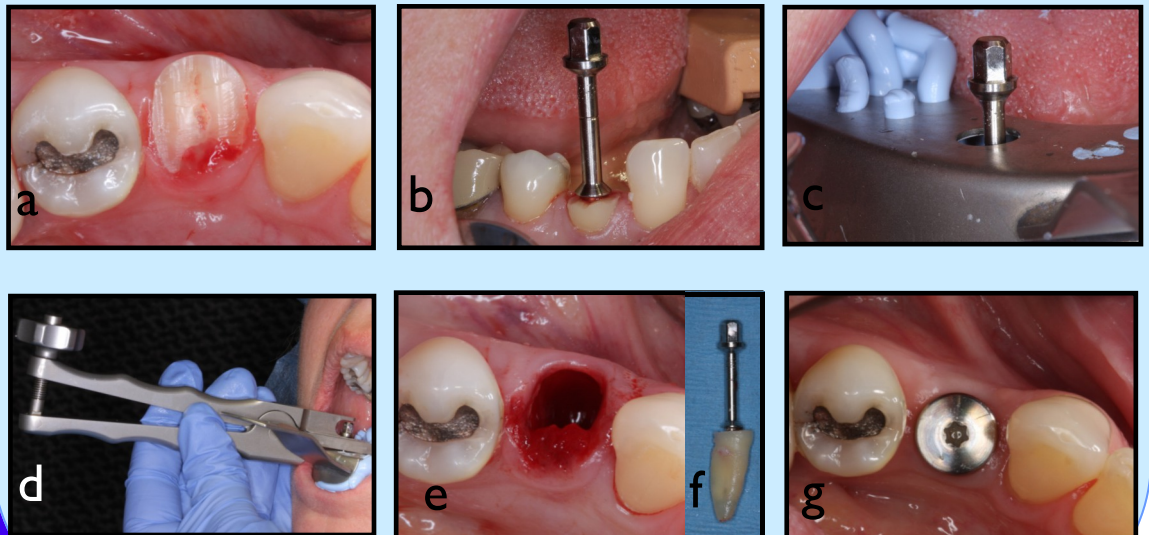

The most atraumatic extraction technique possible is one where you never pick up an elevator or forceps to remove a tooth. A relatively new device called the Easy X-Trac system has changed the way Dr. Gould removes teeth in preparation for immediate or delayed implant placement. The device is literally a "wine cork" remover for teeth.

The goal with any atraumatic extraction is to prevent trauma to the gingiva and bone - especially the buccal plate! A non-traumatic extraction enables either immediate implant placement or ensures maximum bone fill into the socket for delayed placement.

The Easy X-Trac system also dramatically enhances the extraction experience for patients. In contrast to traditional elevators and forceps, this device puts absolutely no lateral pressure on the proximal bone or gingiva, which means less post-operative discomfort and faster healing times for your patients.

If you, or any of your staff members, are interested in visiting the office to observe an extraction with the Easy X-Trac system, please give us a call. It would be our pleasure to share the technology and services that we provide to your implant patients!

Photograph series of Dr. Gould using Easy X-Trac. As you can see in [picture "a"] tooth #21 had a history of trauma resulting in external root resorption (evident on the lingual). A small diameter screw is inserted into the root canal space [picture "b"] and a custom tray is filled with bite registration material exposing the screw top [picture "c"]. A
